8. Description of the available laboratory and office space for the Dioscuri Centre (up to one page in A4 format):

The Institute of Sociology is equipped with the CAQDAS TM LAB (Laboratory of data analysis and qualitative research), an interdisciplinary research and teaching unit. Its purpose is to apply basic research in the field of methodology, develop techniques and computer-assisted algorithms for analyzing qualitative data (text and visual), and adapting new methodological applications in social sciences (grounded theory, content analysis, mixed methods, Text Mining, Web Mining, Visual Mining etc.). The centre assists in the implementation of applied projects in science and business, using the effects of completed scientific and qualified works.

In the Institute of Sociology, there is available also a spacious and professionally equipped studio consisting of a focus room and a preview room. We provide comprehensive methodological and analytical support in the process of conducting qualitative research, a high standard of audio-video documentation, and the comfort of a moderator and interview participants.

We offer, among others preparation of the discussion scenario for groups and individual interviews, selection of people for research based on various qualitative selection schemes, experienced moderators, transcripts of interviews, professional analysis and in-depth interpretation of research results within the CAQDAS TM LAB studio, as well as preparation of high-quality analytical reports.

The focus workshop is equipped with a Venetian mirror providing a direct view of the test process and a complete monitoring system, i.e. 3 HD cameras and 4 directional microphones, which enable synchronous and asynchronous recording and recording of audio - video interviews. A multimedia board with a projector and a projection screen with a projector controlled via Wi-Fi and a four-channel sound transmission system are available to the moderator within the studio. Thanks to the proper positioning of the speakers, the room provides the space and acoustics of the recording place, but also expands the stage and creates depth of sound. The technical and IT solutions used allow for internet transmission (on-line) of the course of the discussion, as well as conducting remote research thanks to the installed teleconferencing equipment. Thanks to this, the researchers have the opportunity to observe the course of discussions carried out, e.g. for the purposes of didactic classes, to play the role of a moderator, or to communicate with a moderator during the study. The Lab provide external clients with direct observation facilities in the preview room or on-line observation. The focus groups studio has permanent internet access and its own Wi-Fi network.

9. List of the available research equipment for the Dioscuri Centre:

For the person applying for a grant, we offer a workplace with full equipment necessary to conduct scientific activity, namely: desk, computer equipment, printer, Wi-Fi, laboratory, necessary software like SPSS, Atlas and QDA Miner, as well as professionally equipped rooms to provide workshops and research (focus room with cameras, one-way mirror, microphones, TV screen etc.).

10. List of the additional benefits (other than listed in call text) that the Institution declares to provide for the Dioscuri Centre (i.e.: additional funds, personal benefits, other) (up to one page in A4 format):

We offer a full access to the resources of institute's library.

In addition, the grant's applicant has the opportunity to receive a scientific and administrative support for the project development and management from the academic staff of the Institute of Sociology in particular and the entire Jagiellonian University. Our scientists count with an extensive set of skills and experience in managing from scientific and administrative side the international prestigious research projects.

Furthermore, we offer all administrative benefits and the possibility of using extensive experience and assistance in the field of international project management from the administration staff. Additionally, Institute grants the access to a quality laboratory and the newest software in social sciences (SPSS, QDA Miner, Atlas, etc.). The applicant will benefit from the wide networking possibilities with the research centres and universities in Poland and abroad via seminars, workshops, research trips and scientific exchange. The Institute runs the extensive and dynamic domestic and international networking policy from which both junior and senior scientists benefit. We guarantee the cooperation with experienced colleagues managing international research, from our centre and university, as well as from abroad. The applicant can obtain further benefits from the internalisation of the Institute of Sociology: international exchange with the research centres abroad. The scientists of the Institute participate actively and co-organize many scientific initiatives (conferences, lectures, courses, panels, seminars, workshops, etc.) at the Jagiellonian University. We also offer help and institutional support in organizing the workshops, seminars, panels and conferences on domestic and international levels to obtain the maximum visibility of the research, share the research experience, enhance the networking, as well as to disseminate the research projects' results and communicate it to the society. The Institute strongly support the application of the research to the society via social and educational initiatives so the applicant can obtain the additional experience in this field. We have practice with managing the international meetings with very influential and important professors and representatives of global academic world that will help to communicate the research project with the prestige and to assure its quality.

11. Other information about the internationalisation of the research institution, international researchers employed at the institution, the availability of English language seminars etc.

Jagiellonian University offers many possibilities of study in English via seminars, courses, projects and workshops. Institute of Sociology cooperate with many partners from different universities in the world and indicate the high numbers of foreign students and researchers visiting and studying in our premises on the base of European and other international exchange programmes. Our academic staff has wide contacts with colleagues from abroad. Similarly, the Institute's scientists have obtained a solid experience in collaboration within the international grants. Taking into considerations the Department of Modern Culture led by dr hab. Małgorzata Bogunia-Borowska, Prof. UJ, there were organized numerous seminars and workshops with scientists from different universities from abroad. For example:

- Prof. Roberto Paura, Università di Perugia
Title: Living in the Matrix. How a scientific conjecture was turned into a conspiracy theory
- Melissa Stolfi, Sapienza, Università di Roma
Title: Communicating Euroscepticism. Analysis of parties' election spots from 2008 to 2018
Title: Understanding Euroscepticism: The evolution of an attitude between hard and soft factors
- Elena Kocai, Vilnius Gediminas Technical University
Title: Socio-Cultural Characteristics of Lithuanian, Polish and Belarusian Youth: Comparative Analysis
- Prof. Jerome Kruse
Emeritus and Murray Koppelman Professor
Brooklyn College
The City University of New York
- Prof. Denis Francesconi
Research fellow presso Aarhus Universitet
Adjunct Professor presso Università degli Studi di Verona

Jagiellonian University organizes many conferences, thus creates opportunities for development and cooperation in an international environment- we have a wide range of teaching programs under Erasmus and Erasmus+ projects, as well as bilateral agreements with various universities.
