11. Other information about the internationalisation of the research institution, international researchers employed at the institution, the availability of English language seminars etc. (up to one page in A4 format):

The Faculty of Law, Administration and Economics offers a wide range of courses and curricula in English. It maintains close cooperation with many partners in Europe and overseas. Several research projects have been undertaken with the involvement of the Faculty's staff members.

The Faculty of Law, Administration and Economics at the University of Wrocław is one of the oldest and best university faculties in Poland. With history and traditions dating back to the 19th century, the Faculty connects the glorious past with excellent academics and study opportunities and consistently leads in national educational rankings. Our research and teaching staff consists of more than 200 highly qualified professionals, including several dozen professors. Many of them occupy prominent positions in organs of legislative, executive and judicial powers at national, regional and local levels, as well as run law, tax advisory and statutory audit firms.

The Faculty has nearly seven thousand students and attracts scores of students from Poland, Europe and all over the world. The Faculty offers attractive and unique courses that are dynamically aligned with the needs of the employment market. Faculty students actively participate in academic exchange programs such as MOST and ERASMUS+ and the students involved in scientific associations take part in domestic and international conferences and symposia.

Some fields of study and specializations are conducted entirely in English. Those include the 3-year Bachelor's degree – Bachelor of Business and Administration, 2-year Master's degree – Administration in International Organizations, 2-year Master's degree LL.M. International and European Law and 2-year Master's degree Master Managerial Economics. In addition, studies in the field of Criminal Justice enable the acquisition and making use of comprehensive knowledge in the field of substantive criminal law, law of criminal procedural, criminology, forensic science and related sciences in the sphere of counteracting and preventing crime in social and economic life.

Students interested in obtaining a doctoral degree in law or administration can attend a range of doctoral courses offered as part of the Faculty's postgraduate PhD program. Those who have already completed their higher education can complement their knowledge and further develop their skills in one of many the postgraduate courses offered by the Faculty. A wide range of complementary and training courses are also offered.
